FOR CONGRESS,

JOHN S. BARBOUR, OF ALEXANDRIA.

FRIDAY EVENING, SEPT. 24.

The Richmond Dispatch publishes a list of one hundred negroes who pledge their support to George D. Wiss, the democratic candidate for Congress in that district. Why can't an equal or larger list of the negroes of this city who intend to vote for Mr. Barbour be pub-

Ramsdell, in the Richmond district, has been gotten out of the way and has formally declined the republican nomination for Congress in that district, because he says there are those who believe that his duties as United States Marshal are incompatible with his candidacy for a seat in Congress and adds, "I do not share this opinion, but I do feel that I owe my first duties to the office which I have accepted, I therefore reluctantly decline the nomination which the convention generously tendered me."

Mr. Ramsdell, republican, in his card withdrawing from the congressional campaign in the Richmond district, makes the fourth and last plank of his political platform "exact just tice to every citizen in personal, political and property rights." Now if Mr. Ramsdell of his own knowledge, and he is in a position to know, being a U. S. marshal, is aware of a single case in which exact justice to every citizen in personal, political and property rights-of course by citizens he means negroes -is not awarded, there is reason for his fourth plank; otherwise he should have contented himself with Since Mr. Conkling sounded the toosin of reswakened sectionalism and General Anson McCook repeated it on his micor key, the whole radical host have been put in a state of violent commotion, and bloody shirts are waving and cries of "rebel hords" and "rabel claims" and "rebel pensions" are rescunding throughout the entire North; and all this, too, in behalf of the presidential candidate who said before he was nominated that the time had come when the man who attempted to advance his own ends by reviving the animosities of the war would find himself mistaken. What sort of people are the radicals, or what sort of people do they imagine the rest of their countrymen date for Congress, to withdraw in favor of to be, that they resort to such means to elect Critcher, the Mahone candidate. The plan of to be, that they resort to such means to elect their candidates? Do they suppose that generosity and magnanimity and their reciprocal emotions are qualifications that have been lost to the American people? They must, but they never labored under a greater error, as they will discover in less than six short weeks.

There was an immense turn out of the democrats of Now York last night to ratify the democratic presidential ticket and to celebrate the recent great democratic victory in Maine, Temmany and Irving Hall democrats, and all sorts of democrats, and all other citizens opposed to a continuation of enmity and sectionaliem between the people of one country, and in favor of peace, amity and nationalism, joined hands in one grand demonstration and pledged themselves to hold minor differences in aboyance until the absorbing of ject of their desirethe ousting of the fraudulent and corrupt gang that now has control of all the executive departments of the government-now on the eve of accomplishment, shall have been achieved. The display incressed the terror and alarm with which the republicans had previously been affected and was an omen of certain victory next November. How will it read on the morning after the election that owing to the concentration of the entire democratic vote of New York upon one ticket the Empire State gave a large majority for Hancock, but that owing to a senseless division among the democrats of Virginia the vote of the Old Dominion was cast for Garfield !

Mr. Ramsdell, the republican candidate for Congress in the Richmond district, being una- the money they want for legitimate purposes, ble to obtain the promise of any support from | and that the talk about their limited funds is the national or congressional committees of his all bosh. party, has withdrawn from the canvass in order that he may assist the Mahonite candidate, though by so doing and leaving the republicans say that the latter has always opposed their without a candidate upon whom to concentrate and who will bring out their full strength, he also knows that he will necessarily weaken the national ticket. He has followed the example set by his party in all the districts in the State reason for, and no possibility of, the spientific except the 1st, 2d and 7th, and it reported that bureau of that service being transferred from the republican candidates in those districts also will soon be withdrawn. As Collector Brady says, they want to defeat the democrats and if they can't accomplish that end with their own menthey will try what they can do with the Mahonites. Mr. Brady is a republican office holder, so is Mr. Popham, who advises the cratic success. It evidently shows, however, day. - Lynchburg Advance. same course, but there are many conscientions the desperate straits to which the radicals are and unprejudiced republicans in the State who have great influence with the real strength of toms amounted to $738,748; from internal their party, the negroes, and who will not fol- revenue, $436,112. cal course and character of these self seeking leaders naturally suggests an inquiry about the profit they are to receive from the transaction. They are not the sort of men who give up a bird even in the bush without some recompense, and with this suggestion comes back the remembrance of that shooking rumor about the barter and sale of the presidential electoral ticket in case the eleven votes of Virgicia be required to decide the contest.

The radicals already begin to look upon their cause as lost, and, human nature like, want somebody upon whom to cast the blame of their misfortune. As no one will willingly assume that responsibility, they force it upon the purse groud shoddyite, Jewell, chairman of their national executive committee, and that loquacious individual is consequently in no enviable state of mind. In fact he would much rather be engaged in dividing the red from the blue blood by satin ribbons at the entertainments he used to give during Grant's administration, giving the former cheap and the latter dear winee.

The greatest indignity has been put upon poor old Mr. Thompson. Notwithstanding his generous offer of a pair of government pistols to Gen. Woodford with which to defend himself from the judge and jury and other law officers of Mississippi, yea, even with his avowed intention of driving the rebels away from the polls in the backwoods with United States ships of war, fresh in their minde, the Grand Army of the Republic, in the capital of his own State, did not invite him to address them, though he went there for that express purpose.

The Philadelphians have been entertaining the merchants of the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia for the purpose of securing the trade of that rich see ion of country. A far more effeetive way of attaining their object, and, in addition, to get back a large part of the trade of other portions of the South, would be for them to hint to the radical press of their city the advisability of being a little less profuse in its use of the bloody shirt.

Among the speakers at the great democratic meeting in New York last night was Governor Holliday, of this State.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Correspondence of the Alexa. Gazette. WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 24, 1880. There is no doubt, and everybody here sees it, that the republicans, at least all of them who live in this city, or come to it and stay long enough to talk, are sick and dispirited. They felt weak and discomposed before the Maine election, but the result of that has upset them entirely. Some of the clerks already give up the contest, and are asking their democratic friends to speak a good word for them or to look for a pisce outside the departments for them. Others, on the contrary, are angered, and, when off their guard, talk about the republicans fighting before they will give up the country to the control of the "d-d rebels and foreigners." Well, they'll have to fight then, Harcook. Fortunately, if they do fight, their road, but subsequently refused to pay on the canvass opened. Many changes are reported, opponents will be Northern democrats, and as ground that the road had not been "speedily" the latter whipped the South, there isn't much doubt of their being able to sew up such sgainst it in the court there. The suit was the country. The country is considered safe by weak fighting material as now compose the republican party. Nearly all the fighting men in the army, such as McClellan, Roscoranz, Sickles, Butler and hundreds of others, are now

A letter received here this morning from Senator Johnston, of Virginia, says he will enter the campaign for the regular democratio ticket in his State on the 25th at Tezawell Court House, where he had been president of a bank, commonwealth's attorney, and member of the Legislature, and remain in it actively in that district until the 12th proxime, when his son Dr. Ben Johnston will be married.

Bound will be the district elector, and will appoint the county electors; an active canvass will be kept up until just before the election, when Woltz, whose vote, it is hoped, will thus be divided, seeing that he has no chance, will be willing to withdraw, Nash will also withdraw, and the whole opposition to Judge Garrison, the democratic candidate, be consentrated upon Critcher. Woltz now believes that he has a good chance of election, awing to the split in the demogratic ranks caused by Critcher, and has rejected all the offers made to him to withdraw, but the proposed effort to divide the negro vote will, it is thought, succeed, and then, it is supposed, he will be more smenable to withdrawing in-inences. A private letter received here this morning from Senator Wallace says that Hancock will carry l'ennsylvanis, and that Virginia must not be dereliet in this the supreme effort the people of the whole country are making for a national and constitutional government. Senator Wallace forstold the result in Maine a month before hand and when every other democrat outside of Maine had given up the contest, so that

A letter ressived here to day from Mr. Bigger, secretary of the democratic State committee of Virginia, speaks sanguinely of the prospects of the democracy in that State, and the belief here is now becoming general that will do his duty, fle is a man whom politicians the troutle in Virginia is all smoke and no fire; that few real democrate will be led off by the Mahone movement, and that the democratic mejority will be about as large as usual.

Graud Democratic Demonstration in New York.

Nover before in the history of New York city has there been witnessed such an outburst of enthusiasm, such a grand expression of faith in the principles of democracy, as that which was last night manifested under the auspices of Tammany Hall.
